

In early January 2012, a Victoria resident posted the following message on Facebook:

"I wanted to share this story – I was driving by Reynolds school last week and some boys (probably from the soccer academy) were out for a run along McKenzie by the school. A homeless man had spilled the contents of everything he owns from his buggy onto the sidewalk and over the inside lane of the road (plastic bags were filled to the brim). The boys were headed right for him. I wasn't sure what to expect but was thinking that they'd run around him. Nope! They all stopped (about 10 of them) to help him gather his possessions off the road and put his buggy back up. I had such a lump in my throat. There are some pretty good kids out there! Way to go Reynolds' boys!"
